Services That Can Help You Develop a Parenting Plan

Traditional Mediation: In traditional mediation, you and your partner will come and meet with Dr. KKJ for a one day, all day mediation session. This session will be confidential and involve no notes and no court. You will be provided a summary that can be used to develop a separation agreement.

Mediation Sessions- Mediation with a Twist! Here, you and your partner will meet with Dr. KKJ for several mediation sessions. These sessions are confidential, with no notes and no court. You will be provided a summary that you can be used to develop a separation agreement.

Co-parenting Therapy: You and your co-parent will meet with Dr. KKJ to develop a parenting plan. These therapy sessions are confidential, but notes are kept, and the sessions may be reimbursable under your out-of-network health care plan. You can stay in this process to work out issues as they arise over time.

Collaborative Divorce, Child Specialist: These sessions are an educational and mediation process that can help you develop a parenting plan with your Collaborative Divorce attorney.
